

Fellowships at Paideia

for the Paideia One-Year Jewish Studies Program

Program features

- Academic studies of Jewish text, culture, tradition and philosophy
- World-leading faculty from the top Israeli and European universities
- Traditional Hevruta text study methodology
- Applied project work in Informal Education and Community Leadership
- An open, international and pluralistic European environment
- Hebrew Ulpan on three different levels
- Mid-year study trip to Israel in cooperation with Yad Vashem
- Follow-up programs and yearly conferences
- Access to a 500-individual strong network of alumni in 40 countries

120 ECTS Master's Degree

The program is part of a joint 120 ECTS Master's Program in Jewish Civilizations in cooperation with the Hochschule für Jüdische Studien in Heidelberg. Continue your studies in Heidelberg, Germany for seminars and thesis work for an MA degree.

Scholarships

Scholarships are available towards tuition, accommodation and living costs.

Criteria for acceptance

- Commitment to the renewal of European Jewish culture
- Intellectual curiosity and documented academic experience (in any field)
- Interpersonal and leadership skills
- Command of English (language of instruction)

Deadlines

Early Application: Deadline January 15 (decision by March)

Application I: Deadline March 1 (decision by April)

Application II: Deadline April 15 (decision by June)

Scholarships awarded on a rolling basis - apply now!

Paideia is a non-denominational institute of higher Jewish learning with an academic focus on textual sources. Dedicated to the renewal of European Jewish culture, Paideia is also an applied institute linking academic studies to action.

For more information please visit www.paideia-eu.org

 PAIDEIA
The European Institute for Jewish Studies in Sweden

